LETTER FROM GALLATIN.

The Crops-A Flattering Estimate-A Good Section to Live In.

paper would be interested in reading something of the agricultural interests and the doings of the people of this locality, we have presumed to intrude a few items into your columns. Farming is the principal business of this valley—the raising of corn, barley and a cereal or flower that will not grow rye. The corn crop of this valley, from present indications, will this year be one-third larger than any previous year. We estimate the acreage of this valley planted in corn this year at seven thousand acres, with an average of forty bushels per acre (which we believe is not over-estimated), making a total of two hundred and eighty thousand bushels, worth fifty cents per bushel. Total amount, one hundred and forty thousand dollars; while we have one-third of that amount of land in barley and rye, making seventy thousand bushels of those cereals, worth at present prices about forty cents per bushel, making a total of twenty-eight thousand dollars. This estimate includes the hay crop, for we are not posted as to what amount of grain has been cut for hay; but whether cut for hay or harvested for grain, the value in money is about the same, giving a total valuation for CORN AND OTHER CEREALS OF $168,000.

This estimate does not include vegctables and fruit, of which there is a suf- He almost seems possessed of intellificiency of the former for home con- gence enough to appreciate the dissumption and to spare. There is not the law of the land as with an aristoyet fruit enough grown in this valley | cratic air he flies from for home consumption, but our people | top imitating the sounds that he hears are alive to that interest, and are pre- around him. paring to plant largely another year. In our estimation of crops in this community we only include what is known as the Island, a strip of land eight miles in length by two in width. Outside of this estimate is Old Los Nietos, New River, and a portion of LOS COYOTES RANCHO,

Which will add at least one-third to our estimate, all in Los Nietos Township. Besides, our pork and beef interest will add another important item of revenue to our valley. Taken all together, we can safely estimate the surplus products of the township at nearly a quarter of a million of dol-lars for the present year, provided we can realize a fair price for our produce. Who says that the projected railroad to our back country should not be built? When once built it will give us a market in the mines for all of our | Lightrunning surplus produce at remunerative prices, and lead to the discovery of new and valuable mines, giving employment to thousands of laborers, who must be fed from our Egypt of the Pacific Coast.

As I do not wish to weary the patience of your readers, I will close, and pursue the subject further in the future. OBSERVER. Gallatin, June 24, 1874.

Phonix-Filling the New Contracts for Grain - The Flour Mill - Chaplain PHŒNIX, June 23.—The weather is very clear and warm.

Notwithstanding the constant work which has been done on the dam, they have been unable to raise the water sufficiently to flow into the ditches.

A number of trains will load with grain this week for the different posts, to fill the new contracts. Hellings' threshers will commence work to-morrow. The mill at East Phœnix is running, and turning out considerable Prescott. Tucson, June 23 .- Hon. John Wasson returned yesterday morning from the East.

The Citizen says the reports from the copper mines are of the most cheering character. Mr. Pearce left the mines last Thursday, and the day before he left they ran out a half ton of pure copper from one of the furnaces, and everything was working to the satisfaction of all concerned. It is the intention of the company to erect two more furnaces at once. A few such men as E. M. Pearce and C. O. Brown will soon bring the country up, and we certainly hope and believe that their profits will be equal to their enterprise.

A number of arastras are running at the Oro Blanco mine, and good results are anticipated when they are cleaned up. We see every day rich specimens of gold, silver and copper ores, brought in by prospectors from different sections of the country.

Opinions of a Visitor.

A correspondent of the Mendocino county Independent Dispatch, writing from this city under date of June 6th, says a good many good things about Los Angeles city and valley. We make the following extract:

There are about three hundred arrivals here daily, a great many being from the Eastern States and some from Europe. The city of Los Angeles is nearly one hundred years old, and is, or rather was, a Spanish town. Many of the old adobe buildings with tiled roofs are yet standing, but they are fast giving way to a more improved and American style of architecture. The city is built upon a large valley, or, more properly, you might call it a plain. The land is exceedingly fertile, and there is a great quantity of it good. Taking Los Angeles as a center with a radius of one hun-EDITOR HERALD: - Thinking that semi-circle of land that (as has been the many readers of your valuable estimated) will support a million of people in comfortable circumstances, and I do not think the estimate is too great.

Fruits and flowers of the high latitudes grow side by side with those of the torrid zone, and oranges, apples, almonds, peaches, grapes, olives, lemons, pomegranates, figs and many other fruits, can be found in the same orchard. The climate is very even, the thermometer rarely falling below 54° in Winter or rising above 90° in the Summer. I have been here about a week, and during that period have not experienced any unpleasant weather. The improved grounds around the residences of some of the citizens here are beautiful beyond description. The greatest rarity of trees (fruit-bearing and ornamental,) and shrubs and vines of the rarest and choicest quality, grow in the richest profusion while the air is perfumed by a display of flowers that would rival any exotic garden in the world, and the groves are vocal with the music of the finest singing bird, the mocking- FASHIONABLE MILLINERY, bird, which is a native of this place. Indian Management.

"Lo, the poor Indian" or rather the privilege of looking after his interests and the right to swindle him out of his supplies, is giving the Government no small amount of trouble, besides causing a good deal of ill feeling among those good people who are struggling for big Indian offices and Indian supply contracts. The truth is the Indians of the United States are a much wronged people. Of all the robberies practiced by Federal officials, those worked on the Indians are beyond doubt the most barefaced and the most cruel. The Government has under its protection hundreds of tribes whose lands and homes have been taken from them, and they moved upon Reservations. They are, under the contract, to receive certain amounts of clothing and provisions annually; but while the Government actually pays for these things, the Indians never receive them. The people pay for the best quality of Indian supplies and the Indians receive the poorest quality that can be found in the market. The people are robbed and the Indians are robbed. These robberies are the work of the agentsthe middlemen-between the Government and the Indians. Contractors and Indian agents as a general thing soon get rich. The process is simple and easy. The agent makes out a requisition for the full amount of the best supplies and the Government pays the bill. The Indians receive the smallest possible amount and of the poorest quality. The difference between ten sacks of mouldy flour which the Indians get and the thousand sacks of good flour which the Government pays for, assists the agent in making his fortune. The Indian complains, but he can only do so to the agent, and the agent tells the Indian that the Government is responsible for the short supplies. Any whining, hypocritical rascal is smart enough to defraud the Government and starve a tribe of Indians into killing a few white women and children.

Neglected Education.

One very important feature in the education of the average American appears to have suffered neglect of late The old Californians, who were young men twenty years ago, were not deficent in the art of pistol-shooting. Back in the days of '49 and '50 we all remember that then the soft note of the pistol meant a funeral. Then a shooting affray always reduced our population one, and sometimes two. Then when two men commenced shooting at each other some one was certain to be hit, and it rarely happened that an outsider-a mere looker on in Venice-was the recipient of the blue pill. The boys were in practice in those days, and it was a comfort to look on at a shooting bout. The only parties who ran the slightest risk were the principals, and their risk was by no means slight. He was counted a poor shot in the good old times who could not spoil the red spot in the ace of hearts, at ten paces, four shots out of five, and an exchange of shots where no one was killed was a disgrace to the shooters and a subject of ridicule throughout the camp. We are sorry the youth of the present day do not compare with the early gold-diggers in the art of pistol-shooting. We regard a dead shot with a six-shooter as a great moral reformer. Ten to one his victims have lived long enough for the good of the community, and when he too is picked off, by one of his kind who chances to get the "drop," it is a sign that public morals no longer require his presence. But we have a thorough contempt for the modern shootist. He never hits one of his kind, and usually kills or wounds an innocent bystander-a boy, perhaps, who but for his untimely taking off might have lived to be a good citizen. It is a disgrace to the the memory of COLT to see a couple of hoodlums empty their six-shooters at each other, with no more harm than killing a passer-by or two. The Industrial school should have a pistol gallery, and no inmate of the establishment should be permitted to leave until he could lodge every shot in the body of a DE Young at ten paces.

SANTA BARBARA has just closed her first trial for a violation of the Local Option law. The defendant was charged with selling liquor in quantities of less than five gallons. A number of witnesses were called, but none of them were quite sure they had seen the defendant sell or give away liquor in small lots. The prosecuting attor- the Fresno river, from which a V ney saw he could not convict, and shaped flume is in process of construc-asked that the case be dismissed tion that is intended to be fifty-two which was accordingly done. Compulsory Voting.

The HERALD's suggestion made a few days ago on the advantage of compulsory voting has met the approbation of thinking men. A number of letters have been received by the editor indorsing the idea and urging a further agitation of the proposition.

A careful study of the plan only strengthens the conviction that it offers the only practical means by which the honest portion of the community may defend themselves against the wrongs growing out of the influence of bad men over irresponsible voters. If all voted who have the right, we should have fewer bad officers, and public positions would be filled with honest, conscientious men, who would discharge their duty with credit to themselves and honor to those placing them in positions of power and trust. This reward ought to be sufficient incentive to secure the vote of every legitimate voter, but experience has demonstrated that it is not, and we all know how large a proportion of those possessing the right of suffrage fails to exercise that right at all ordinary elections. By enforcing the payment of poll-tax the law compels men to purchase the right to vote, but the law does not exact the legal exercise of that right after it is secured. It would probably shut out many bad votes, or at least benefit the State by compelling those bad men who use them to pay the tax, to require every man who presents himself at the ballot-box to show his poll-tax receipt before depositing his vote, and we are quite confident that a law compelling each legal voter to vote would reduce the value of corrupt votes and ultimately so purify the ballot-box that honest men would no longer regard it as useless to attend elections.

Liability of Stockholders.

As there appears to be a wrong impression in the public mind regarding the liability of stockholders in incorporated companies, we give the following extract from Section 323 of the Civil Code, as amended at the last session of the Legislature:

SECTION 322. Each stockholder of a corpor-SECTION 3:2. Each stockholder of a corporation is individually and personally liable for such proportion of is debts and liabilities as the amount of stock or shares owned by him bears to the whole of the subscribed capital stock or shares of the corporation and for a like proportion only of each debt or claim against the corporation. Any creditor of the corporation may institute joint or several actions against any of its stockholders for the proportion of his claim payable by each, and proportion of his claim p agasle by each, and in such action the Court must ascerta n the proportion of the claim or debt for which each defendant is liable, and a several judgment must be rendered against each, in conformity therewith.

THE press of Sacramento city is opposed to Local Option and the people themselves will only consent to vote for no-license with a proviso. They are willing to do away with the retail liquor business during the dull season; but during State Conventions and sessions of the Legislature they wish to be exempt from the provisions of the temperance law. It is on these occasions Sacramento reaps her harvest. Then the poorest class of whisky is sold at two bits a drink, hash houses adopt the prices of first-class hotels, rooms that are empty all the remainder of the year rent at fabulous rates. Sacramento has an eye to State Conventions and Legislative sessions. They are the nets in which she catches her annual supply of fish, and she does not want them interfered with by Local Option wing-dams.

THE San Francisco Bulletin claims that the friends of the railroad attempted to load FREEMAN'S Freights and Fares bill with impractical amendments in order to defeat its passage or render it unpopular should it become a law; but that the supporters of the bill saw the intention and voted down the amendments as fast as they came up. This is weak. The bill was impractical man to make it when it left Mr. FREEMAN'S hands, and any amendment made could not but imbill were sufficiently powerful to kill to be one of the cubs. The boys had all amendments offered, how was it that they did not pass the bill itself? good price for a young California lion, The power to do one was all that was and they determined to capture the The power to do one was all that was required to do the other.

RHODE ISLAND cannot elect a United States Senator. The trouble does not originate from the fact that she has no candidates, but that she has so many that her Legislature cannot agree which is the best man. There is no occasion for haste now, as Congress will adjourn in a few days and the new Senator will not be needed until the meeting of the next Congress, which will transpire several
